Its Plan of Work Discussed and Importance of Ordinances Connected Therewith Illustrated.

Gathering genealogical statistics and accompanying temple work, with baptism for the dead as the principal ordi nance, was the principal theme at the tabernacle services Sunday afternoon being President Anthon H. Lund,

PREST. A. H. LUND.

PREST. A. H. LUND.

President Lund of the Genealogical Society of Utah said the redemption of the dead in the restoration of the gospei in these latter days is in fulfilment of the Biblical prophecy of Malachi where he predicted the turning of the hearts of the children to the fathers. The society is no money-making scheme; it is entirely for spiritual purposes. This meeting was called for the purpose of talking upon this question, which Joseph Smith said was the grandest of all.

ELDER JOSEPH E SMITH IR

ELDER JOSEPH F. SMITH, JR. Elder Joseph F. Smith, Jr., said in part:

Prediction was made by Malachi, the prophet, concerning the coming of the Lord of hosts in the latter days, when he will reign on earth a thousand years and the Lord has sent into the world a messenger to prepare the way. Some thought this prophecy referred to the coming of John, the forerunner of the Savior, but it riers to his coming in these days. In that day the wicked cannot abide the presence of the Lord, and that was not the condition in the Savior's day.

and that was not the condition in the Savior's day.

It was understood by the prophets of old that in the latter days there should be a restitution of all things, and all peoples should be saved. We believe we are living in that great day. Many of the ancient predictions have already been fulfilled. Joseph Smith was called and ordained of God to stand at the head of this dispensation, and the keys and authority of ministering, of repentance, of baptism were delivered to him, the keys of all the dispensations. The righteous are being gathered out nim, the keys of all the dispensations. The righteous are being gathered out of the world before the arm of the Lord shall fall upon the nations. The tribes of Israel and Ephraim are being gathered from the nations of the earth. Many of the Jews are now turning their faces toward the Holy Land; colonies are being established there, and this once cursed land is again beand this once cursed land is again be-coming fruitful and fit for habitation, fulfilling another prediction. In due time the ten tribes shall return from the north.

Through the restoration of the priest-

Through the restoration of the priesthood of Elijah, the Lord is turning the hearts of the children to the fathers. So important is this work that unless it be performed the whole earth will be smitten with a curse.

Our temples are built for this purpose and work for those who died without the privilege of embracing the gospel upon the earth is being performed. The Lord, himself, taught the gospel to the spirits in prison. The dead who repent of their sins will be redeemed. We are baptized for the dead, performing ordinances which will dead, performing ordinances which will admit them into the heavenly kingdom. The turning of the hearts of the chil-dren to the fathers is still further manin the establishing of genealogical societies and the energetic work of thousands of individuals compiling vital statistics and records of the dead. In 1844, eight years after Elijah re-stored his priesthood, the first genealogstored his priesthood, the first genealog-ical society in the world was organ-ized. The work has spread since then, and today there are thousands of socie-ties, and people engaged in the work. The Genealogical Society of Utah was organized in 1894, by the First presi-dency to assist in gathering records of the dead. More interest should be shown by our people in this highly im-portant matter.

The choir sang the anthem, "Hosan-na."

ELDER C. W. PENROSE.

ELDER C. W. PENROSE.

ELDER C. W. PENROSE.

Elder Charles W. Penrose said he had been closely associated with the genealogical society and he considered it of utmost importance, not only to us, but to our ancestry who have preceded us beyond the veil.

Our religion is a practical religion from beginning to end, which is not yet—faith, repentance, baptism, laying on of hands, work in our temples—all are practical.

Paul. in speaking to the Hebrews.

on of hands, work in our temples—all are practical.

Paul, in speaking to the Hebrews, closes with "and they without us should not be made perfect." We are looking forward to when the whole human family will be linked together from Adam down to the last. Certain works and ordinances are necessary to bring this about, and baptism for the dead is one of the important duties which devolves upon the Latter-day Saints in this connection. Paul asked why baptize for the dead if the dead rise not? This shows such work was performed in Paul's day. We now have four temples in which this work and these ordinances for the dead are being administered by the living descendants. The genealogical society is to gather information from the four quarters of the earth. The elders abroad have many calls to look up this genealogical work. That is not their calling. They may look up records for families and friends, but the society is organized through which this particular work should be performed. A life membership in the society may be secured for $10, and much valuable information may be obtained from the society. The time will come when there will be agencies of this society throughout the world, information will come in shoals, and the living and the dead will be joined together until the day of the final consummation.

PREST. F. M. LYMAN.

Prest. Francis M. Lyman said when people come into a house of worship they are expected to remain until the close of the services, which is not over an hour and a half, or two hours at the longest, and it is an offense, generally considered throughout Christian churches, for people to disturb the worship by getting up and going out. It grieves the Spirit of the Lord if there be disturbance in our gatherings.

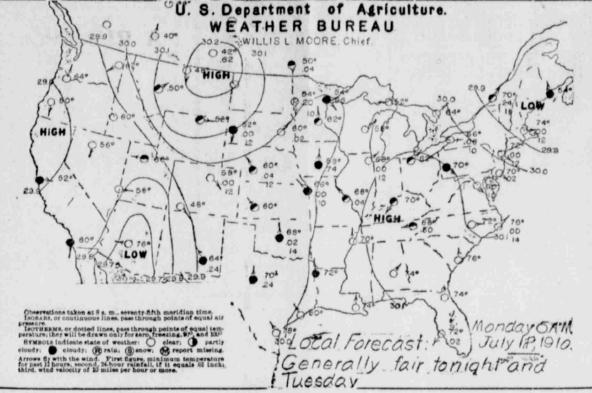

It is wonderful what truths are taught here today, such are not heard anywhere else in the world. This is the work of the Lord; it is not like the work of man, it is God-like.

When we are baptized we are expected to live according to God in the spirit. The salvation of the living is just as important as the salvation of the dead.

They took the floater. After the arrest yesterday of Payne and Thomas, and when they had been positively identified by Stansbury as the couple who had fleeced him out of the $320 by the old confidence game of the "baggageman and traveler," they conferred and returned the full amount of $320 to Stansbury. As in the shrewd operation of the game to which Stansbury fell victim, it was all the matter of a "loan," no charge could be preferred against the swindlers. Although it was all a confidence game, Payne had asked Stansbury for the loan of $320 and Stansbury was glad to recover his money and continue his way, and the police were satisfied to get Payne and Thomas started off to other fields.

SHOTS STOP BAD BOY.

Youngster Makes a Break for Liberty

Edward Kennedy, aged 16 years, and ward of the juvenile court, had several black marks set against him Saturday night when after he had been picked up on the streets by Patrolman Tyler he attempted to escape, and only stopped running when the officer had fired two warning shots in the air. Kenndy was taken into custody by Patrolman Tyler Saturday night and was taken to police headquarters, to be held for the juvenile court officials. After being booked and while being taken to the boys' ward Kenndy made a break for liberty through the jail yard. Officer Tyler, in pursuit, fired one shot, that only accelerated the speed of the fleeling youngster. As the boy turned into State street the policeman fired another shot, and Kennedy stopped. # THE TYPHOID FLY

Sunday School Union of Liberty Stake Discusses the Life, Habits and Remedies of the Housefly.

At the Sunday school union services in the Second ward chapel Sunday afternoon, Dr. W. M. Stookey and Dr. J. Ridges delivered interesting and instructive lectures on "The Life and Habits of the Ordinary House Fly." and control of infectious diseases. Dr. Stookey declared that a female fly lays 200 eggs, which, in warm weather, hatch the same day as laid, the maggest thus hatched thriving on flith, and in 10 days the fully developed house fly is evolved. Dr. Stockey said the house fly should be cajled the "typhoid fly," as its chief alm in life seems to be the spreading of that disease. It is not the biting ing of that disease. It is not the biting fly, having no biting equipment about its anatomy. The biters are other but similar looking flies. "The house fly which lives on filth, will walk on you, wipe his feet on you and try to crawl into your mouth, but he never bites. These flies will not thrive where cleanliness reigns. The time will come when it will be considered as disreputable to have flies about your homes as bed bugs now are."

Dr. Ridges spoke of the great progress made of late in the methods of control of infectious disease. Smallpox and diphtheria are now well in hand. Bacteria are everywhere in vast numbers. There are two classes, one of which is harmless, the work of the latter being seen in the souring of milk and raising of bread. The house fly is the worst disease spreader of all. For three months after a patient has had typhold, he may scatter germs of the disease.

Dr. Stookey then suggested the fol-owing "Don'ts: "Don't patronize a lealer who allows flies to crawl over his fruits and vegetables. Don't allow flies on anything you eat. Don't allow them to crawl over the faces and hands of sleeping children. Don't eat at boarding houses which are crowded with flies."
